Debate in the House on the River and Harbor Bill.

A Motion to Reconsult Passing at the Adjournment.

Senate Debate on the Supplementary Currency Bill.

Senate Bill Passed Removing Political Disabilities from Seven Hundred Southerners.

Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.

WASHINGTON, June 16.

THE PAYMASTER QUESTION.

General Butler said, Mr. Speaker, with regard to the objection heretofore made to the consideration of the bill relating to paymasters, I have taken it for granted that no objection would be made to it, and therefore I have not been present to urge it. I have only to say that it is for the relief of paymasters, to secure a modification of the law in regard to their accounts. They are subjected to great hardships under the present law, and I hope the bill will be passed. It is a bill which has been before the House for two years, and I trust that it will not be objected to now.

Mr. ELIOT said he would not object to the bill, but he thought it was not in order to consider it at this time.

Mr. BUTLER said he would move to suspend the rules and pass the bill.

Mr. ELIOT said he would not object to that motion.

Mr. WASHBURNE (Ill.) moved to strike out the enacting clause of the bill, and upon that motion he would say a few words. He was opposed to the bill because it was a private bill, and because it was a bill which would establish a precedent for the payment of claims of this character under a cost of three millions of dollars. He was opposed to the bill

DYSPEPTIC SUFFERERS.

THE CITY—

During the present heat of summer, when all the energies of mankind, for pleasure, profit, or duty, are taxed to the utmost, and when, from the very nature of the season, the digestive powers are more or less impaired, and the whole system is debilitated, it may be considered a duty, as well as a pleasure, to call the attention of the afflicted to the only safe, effective and reliable remedy for all diseases of the stomach; and while the cause lasts, effectual relief. Among the numerous testimonials of the virtues of HOSTETTER'S CELEBRATED STOMACH BITTERS, which have been published, and which are daily coming to hand, there is not one which can be more relied upon than that of the Rev. Dr. Cummings, of Philadelphia, who, after suffering for years from dyspepsia, in its most aggravated form, was induced to try the Bitters, and the result was a perfect and permanent cure. If the above testimonial is in good working order, and can be relied upon, there will be no difficulty. It is proved that this remedy will not only cure dyspepsia, but all diseases originating in a disordered stomach, and that the only safe, effective and reliable remedy for the same is HOSTETTER'S CELEBRATED STOMACH BITTERS.
